On The Nature Trail By Evan Kramer

Nancy and Greg Broadhead and John and Tobe Porter spent some time on Friday morning cleaning up the nature trail as part of a volunteer effort to make the trail accessible. The trail has become overgrown and the foursome decided to use some of their time to making it more accessible for people to use. John wielded a chain saw, Nancy and Tobe used loppers and Greg helped out on the chainsaw. The area is rich in botanical diversity. There are Port Orford Cedar, madrone, live oak, rhodias, azaleas, ferns and berry vines to name a few. You can now walk along the much more accessible nature trail off of Lakeshore Drive across the street from the picnic pavilion in Buffington Park. Look for the sign facing the road announcing the beginning of the trail.

It took me several years to realize it but one of the many things to do at Buffington Park besides play a game of horse shoes, ride a horse in the arena, play tennis on one of the two courts, play baseball or basketball is try a game of miniature golf. There is a small nine hole miniature golf course located between the A-frame cabin and the restroom facility in the park. Despite the vicissitudes of weather that we experience it's really not in bad condition and besides that its free! However, I've yet to see anyone putting around out there so give it a try. I also noticed the new playground equipment is being installed in the park.

It's time for a walk on the beach. Attention Chuck and Kathy Duncan: this morning (Thursday) there is a low tide of -1.7 at 8:23am. A good time to take a walk along the beach and get a good look at all the uncovered rocks and tidepools. We've also run the tides until the end of the month in this issue.

Auction A Success

The Jubilee Committee auction held last Saturday evening was a resounding success. The auction began at 6:00pm and continued on until 11:30pm at the Community Building. Mayor Delaine Kennedy served as auctioneer. The committee raised $2,329.45. Nearly 60 people had bid cards and kept things interesting. The money raised will go towards purchase of the fireworks for the spectacular finale to the Jubilee Celebration at Battle Rock Park. Firefighter Darryl Thomas told me there would be additional mortars bought this year for the show. On Monday he left to pick up the fireworks which will be handled by the Port Orford Volunteer Fire Department.

One of the many events included in this year's Jubilee is the 15th annual horse-shoe tournament on Sunday, July 2, starting at 11:00am, at the horseshoe pit in Buffington Park. Sign up time is between 10:00-11:00am and the entry fee is $3.00.

Classes Filling Up

Last week we had an article put out by the Port Orford Arts Council about their summer arts program. Since that paper came out three out of the four classes have been filled including the basket weaving, paper making and pottery classes. There still is some room in the theater class which will be held Tuesdays and Wednesdays from 1:00 - 3:00pm at the Port Orford Community Center. The classes begin July 11 and 12 and are for young people ages 10 -14. To sign up for this class call Ann Foss at 332-9185 or Carol Malley at 348-2812.

Looks like its going to be a great summer in Port Orford!

Council Meeting

The city council unanimously passed a resolution designating Hubbard Creek as the City's primary water supply.

City began discussion of a cross connection ordinance. This will address the need for backflow prevention devices to prevent the siphoning of water into the distribution system. More information will be presented at the next regular city council meeting.

Letter to the Editor:

Our 17-C elected school board members now have the opportunity to reorganize the school districts and save us taxpayer's money. Basically there are three districts in Curry...Brookings, Gold Beach, and Port Orford for a total of 3,300 students. Yet we have three school superintendents, roughly one for each 1,000 students. I've been told Portland has approximately 15,000 students and one superintendent. It doesn't take a rocket scientist to see we are paying for three people to do the job of one. The yearly cost, county wide for us taxpayers is over $400,000.

Each county school board could assign two members and form a county wide committee to select one superintendent for all of Curry county. The Superintendents' office could save money by cutting duplicated services. Central purchasing for materials, supplies, and cafeterias could be done in volume. Records could be centrally located, personnel and maintenance from a common pool. The possibilities are unlimited.

We must get all the school boards talking to each other, after all, Curry is one county. We have some good dedicated teachers working for us and the savings could be spent in the class room, not on the top heavy management that we currently have. It's obvious more teachers are needed. Look at our drop out rate, our low test scores, drug use, and the increased enrollment in private religious schools. If it continues costing the taxpayer more and more money, if more parents become disillusion with schools, we will end up with a voucher system a revolt from the taxpayer. Before a replacement superintendent is hired, other possibilities must be explored.

Lions And Tigers And Bears by Valerie Jean Kramer

About ten years ago, I decided I wanted to pet a tiger. It turned out to be rather difficult. The circus was friendly and let me look at the tigers and take photos, but wouldn't let me get too near the cage. Same for the zoo. I can be disgustingly persistent when I want to be and so I finally got a picture of me holding a "tiger by the tail" when a photography magazine arranged a special "Jungle Cat Shoot." The cat was a four month old Siberian Tiger.

If only I'd known about the West Coast Game Park between Bandon and Port

Orford, I could have saved myself a lot of trouble. They always seem to have some sort of babies for visitors to cuddle. A couple weeks ago when we visited I got to play with three baby leopards. Two melanistic (black with black spots) and one normal (yellow with black spots.) They told us they've had 25 leopards born at the park.

The game park's animals are sometimes seen in the movies. The male lion in Disney's recent animated Lion King was based on one of their lions. They have a leopard, a bear, and a tiger in Disney's current hit The Jungle Book. Their bear cubs were in The Bear and a cougar was in Benji The Hunted.

The baby leopards were almost too big to be exposed to the public - they've been learning how to climb out of the petting enclosure. In a week or two, however, they expect to have lynx kittens followed

Stop Smoking

Ever wonder why the tobacco habit is so tough to quit? Besides being socially tolerated and widely promoted, nicotine is more addictive than heroine, according to Nathaniel Wander, Ph.D., a smoking cessation counselor based in Gold Beach. But that doesn't mean it is impossible to stop.

Wander will teach a six-week stop-smoking seminar from 6:30 to 8 pm, every Monday beginning June 12, at Curry General Hospital. Participants will meet twice during "quit week," the week of June 26, Wander said.

Curry Hospital

Curry General Hospital has become a partner in community cyberspace.

Meeting in regular session May 24, hospital board members gave a unanimous thumbs up to an arrangement that will help information-hungry computer enthusiasts access the Internet from central Curry County-without dialing long-distance.

In return for five Internet access hook-ups, the hospital will provide space for community telephone lines that will connect Gold Beach area callers to an international computer information databank known as the Internet.

"Within a month, anyone with a 247 phone prefix will be able to hook up a modem and dial into the Internet for free," Gib Cooper, an Internet user from Hunter Creek, says.

Currently, Gold Beach Internet subscribers must dial a long-distance number to access Internet, "and at 10 to 16 cents a minute, that runs your bill up quite a bit," Cooper adds.

He said Internet users still will pay a monthly subscription fee for the service.

Also, access to all other online information systems or Internet access companies still will require a long-distance call, he says.

Cooper, a member of Gold Beach 2010, says that the hospital has helped the 2010 group meet one of its goals-to bring local Internet access the area.

In discussing the issue, hospital board members agreed that the service would benefit the community while allowing the hospital free information access in far-reaching areas of health care. Hospital costs will come to approximately $200 to install a doorway, Gordon Ensley, administrator, told the board.

Tell-A-Friend

A group of volunteers took preliminary steps to curb Curry County's death rate from breast cancer—the highest in the state—when they completed the first Tell-A-Friend training Wednesday, May 24. The training was held in the Curry General Hospital annex under the auspices of the Curry Breast Health Network and the American Cancer Society.

Armed with facts and information about breast cancer—Oregon's third biggest killer of women—the volunteers now will begin phoning their friends and acquaintances to tell them the best way to avoid becoming yet another mortality statistic.

"Get regular mammograms. Do monthly self-breast exams and have regular check-ups by your doctor or nurse practitioner," said trainer Raylene Dion, R.N., Oregon's breast health access coordinator for the American Cancer Society.

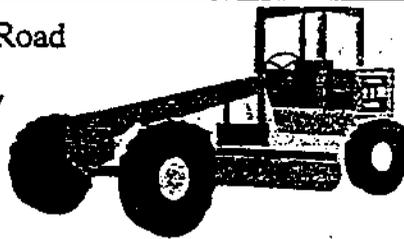

Dion, an energetic 40-year-old based in Portland, travels around the state to conduct Tell-A-Friend training's in towns large and small.

But it is more than job satisfaction that fuels her inner drive. This month she will celebrate her five-year survival since discovering a malignant tumor in her own left breast. She said she was among the 80% of women who get breast cancer with no family history. Luckily she caught her cancer in a very early stage.

"It was really hard. Our two children were 5 and 7. My husband thought I was going to die," she said, recalling the trauma to her family. "But the more I found out about breast cancer, the more I knew I could beat it because I found it in the early stages.

After treatment Dion said she felt the need to help others, "to educate them, because there is no way to prevent breast cancer. But we can prevent death from breast cancer. The way to do that is to catch it early. And that's where mammograms come in."

The Tell-A-Friend program works by one of the simplest communication methods around, word-of-mouth. But sometimes it takes a few tries to recruit volunteers, Dion said. For instance, the first time she visited a small burg in eastern Oregon, no one showed up for the training.

Unfortunately, the same thing happened last week in Brookings. Dion instead discussed volunteer recruitment with Debbie Bourdlaics, who serves the area from Crescent City to Brookings-Harbor for the American Cancer Society, and Patty Scantlin, a member of Soroptimists International. Soroptimists in Brookings-harbor and Gold Beach recently provided low-income mammograms through the Curry Breast Health Network.

About a dozen women attended the two-hour training in Gold Beach. Meanwhile, additional volunteers are still needed in all parts of the county, according to Kathy Comer, R.N., coordinator of the Curry Breast Health Network. Comer plans to conduct subsequent training's in Brookings, Gold Beach and Port Orford.

Those interested in learning more about Tell-A-Friend are invited to a free breakfast hosted by the Breast Health Network at 10 am, June 15, at Curry General Hospital.

Additionally, Comer said she is available to speak before employee groups, organizations and clubs. For more information, phone her at (503)247-6621, ext. 171.

Gastroenterologist

John Walker, M.D., a gastroenterology specialist, spoke before Curry General Hospital medical staff and other hospital personnel in an illustrated informational session Wednesday, May 31.

Dr. Walker is one of four specialists with Gastroenterology Consultants in Medford. In addition to his clinical work, he practices at Rogue Valley Medical Center and Providence Medical Center Medford. He estimates that he and his colleagues consult with Curry General Hospital staff once or twice weekly.

While his talk focused on internal bleeding of the esophagus and general abdominal region, the purpose of the session was much broader.

"These talks also help establish more effective communications with the doctors and nurses who call us regularly for consultation," Dr. Walker said.

Dr. Walker's presentation was arranged through the hospital's quality assurance consultant, William Nickerson, M.D., and Reginald Williams, M.D. chief of staff.

Blast off with Books

Exciting summer programs are planned for children at the Port Orford Public Library!! We will "Blast Off With Books" in the Council Chambers at City Hall on June 22, at 1 pm. Mr. Dan Deuke of Free Flight center for injured birds and other animals will give an interesting talk about the care of injured animals. The public is invited to this free program.

Children are encouraged to keep up their reading skills during the summer. In addition to reading books, the library will provide an assortment of fun activities and crafts. Everyone will be able to win prizes. This year's program will be sponsored in part by McDonald's Restaurants who have furnished theme materials and the ice cream. The program is for children 1st to 5th grade. We have a program called "Read-to me" for the Kindergarten and Preschool crowd. Parents read to the children and they win prizes and a movie and popcorn party.

The program schedule and registration forms have been handed out at the schools. If you didn't get one, please come to the library. If you have questions, please call 332-5622. We hope to have all the children in our community take part.

Summer Choices

Please mark your calendar for mornings of your choice, Monday through Thursday from July 24 - August 10, at Driftwood Elementary School.

Summer CHOICES, a summer school program for 2nd and 3rd graders, needs Listeners, Readers and Helpers ages 13 and up. This summer's theme is "Waters Around Us" and includes field trips, simulated real life activities, reading, writing, math and computer activities.

The learning activities are already planned, parents have registered their children, Coos Curry Electric and Premium Pacific Seafood have donated a field trip, Al from Buck's Sentry is providing fresh fruit for snacks and Nabisco is sending cookies and crackers.

What's missing? You! Please call 332-0151 or 332-0243 so Stephanie Stevens or Laurie Feldhaus can tell you exactly how you can help out.

And, if you know of a free used vinyl or Naugahyde couch, it's needed in the CHOICES library for student reading activities. Call 332-0151 for free pick-up!

Ernie Bussmann has indicated he plans to cross Hubbard Creek with a road built to County specifications. Ralph Donaldson was authorized to obtain the names of Geologists to prepare the City's assessment of any plans the Bussmanns file with the County. Dottie Meyers was asked to check with City attorney about hiring an attorney to handle the City's interest in any proposed development. Frank Hilton who handled the earlier suit was suggested as a candidate.

Matt Gray of HGE was present to update the Council on the City's application for funds to upgrade the City's water system. The Council unanimously authorized a current project of approximately $1,070,800. This would provide a new Garrison Lake intake, dredging of the Hubbard Creek impoundment, replacement of much of the Hubbard Creek raw water line, treatment plant improvements, distribution pump station improvements, reservoir improvements and rebuilding of one of the Hubbard Creek pumps.

In a best case scenario, with the City obtaining maximum grants, the City would not need to borrow any money to make these upgrades. Gray said it was unlikely that OEDD would require the City to make more of a contribution. He said a comparison of the City's rates to other towns would be made and the City would probably be required to raise its rates. The only way to avoid this is to limit the grant request to $375,000 or less. This would mean the City would not receive enough funds to complete its top priority improvements.

Gray will prepare a grant for the design phase of the project. This will be presented at the Block Grant Hearing Monday, June 19, at 6:00pm in the Gable Council Chambers.
