Welkommen Volkswalkers By Evan Kramer

Welcome everyone to the Westernmost Volkswalk in the Lower 48 in Port Orford this Memorial Day Weekend.

The main thing to remember about the three Volkswalk events is they all begin at the Port Orford Community Building, located just east of Highway 101, on 11th Street. When in doubt or if you have any questions about the walks and swim that's the place to go on Saturday, Sunday and Monday. The building should be open by 7:30am and they'll be serving hot coffee and cookies. You can then pick up your start cards and begin your city walk or get in your vehicle and head over to the Cape Blanco State Park.

The starting times for the events is from 8:00am through 1:00pm. Event sponsors are asking you be finished with the Volkswalks by 4:00pm.

Phil Hanson, a member of the Yachats Coastal Gems Volkspport club, reminded me to ask people when they are walking in areas with no sidewalks to walk against the traffic. Also follow the arrows and the colorful pink tape with black polka dots and you won't get lost.

One thing about the Volkswalk it will happen rain, shine or winds or any combination of the three. Looking out the window seeing a light rain falling I've got my fingers crossed we'll have a dry weekend.

While you're out at Cape Blanco State Park partaking in the 6.2 mile walk be advised that the Cape Blanco Lighthouse will be open all three days of Memorial Day weekend from 10:00am to 3:30pm and the Hughes House will be open those days also from 10:00am to 4:00pm. Tours of both buildings are free though donations are appreciated. The Lighthouse tour includes a walk up a flight of 64 steps for a close-up view of the Fresnel lenses and a view of the surroundings that is incomparable. This lighthouse is the westernmost in Oregon, the oldest continuously operating (since 1870), and at 245 feet the highest above sea level. Tours of the lighthouse are docent guided and you're welcome to take photos but asked to stay on the trail from the visitor center to the lighthouse.

The Hughes House is an 1898 Eastlake Victorian home which is listed on the National Register of Historic Places. The two story, eleven room house is over 3,000 square feet and has been restored and lovingly maintained by the Friends of Cape Blanco. The house overlooks the mouth of the Sixes River.

There are many interesting points along the way during the city walk. One of them is the 130 acre Garrison Lake. There are two city owned and developed access points to the lake. One is the Pinehurst fishing dock which is currently closed but the 12th Street boat launch is open. At this site you'll find a gazebo, picnic tables, barbecue pit and a restroom. It's a fine place to set in your canoe or kayak and paddle around the lake. There are many varieties of birds that you'll spot in and around this lake including osprey, bufflehead, belted kingfisher and great blue herons.

The Chamber of Commerce visitor center at Battle Rock Park will be open during the Volkswalk weekend and there you will find all the information you need to know about this area.

Now it's time to lace up those walking shoes and get started on the Volkswalk.

Tax Base Increase Crushed Incumbents Ousted

Partial (and substantial) results are in from the Tuesday primary election and Curry County voters said no in a big way to the proposed tax base increase. Voters turned down the 1.6 million dollar tax increase by a margin of 3 - 1.

Kalmiopsis Audubon

In honor of May as National Wetlands Month, Margaret Forbes will present an illustrated talk on wetlands at the Best Western Beachfront Conference Room (Port of Brookings near the jetty) at 7pm on Wednesday May 29.

Margaret will talk about the ecology and functions of wetlands. How do wetlands improve water quality and protect against flooding? Why are they critical to so many species? Why do they continue to disappear at an alarming rate? Following the talk there will be a general discussion about what can be done on a global and local level to enhance and protect these critical areas.

Margaret has a B.S. in Environmental Engineering and M.S. in Environmental Systems and has recently completed several years of study with Dr. Robert Gearheart, one of the designers of the Arcata Wastewater Treatment Marsh.

Point Orford Heritage Society

"The Oregon Historical Name Board is visiting Port Orford Heads on May 26, and the public is invited," reports Viola Cuatt, president of the Point Orford Heritage Society. "The Historical Name Board is a group of 20 people who have responsibility for naming historical sites not already named," she adds.

Currently traveling the state, the Historical Name Board is a prestigious bunch of history buffs who have an avid interest in Oregon's past. "We plan to have lunch at Port Orford Heads, tour the buildings and site, and walk to the point overlooking Nellie's Cove," says Elizabeth Potter from the State Historical Preservation Office.

Although the former Coast Guard installation has an official name, the Name Board is interested in inspecting this historically valuable location. According to Cuatt, "Here's another nod to the excellent condition of the Port Orford life-saving station. These folks are really excited." However, the Name Board is not alone in its enthusiasm for the well-preserved spot.

According to Dr. Don Peting, professor of architecture at Oregon State University, "Four buildings remain on the site. Together with the curbed driveways, areas of lawn and privet hedge surrounding the barracks, and related paths and walkways, the four-building ensemble conveys a particular sense of place and time. The site retains sufficient integrity to be considered eligible for listing in the National Register of Historic Places."

Built in the depression of the 1930's, the Coast Guard compound was a boon to the town's economy. Providing local employment during construction and ongoing rescue of fishermen, the life-saving station served the area for 30 years. At times, up to 100 people were posted at the Heads.

During World War II, there were horse and dog patrols on duty to protect the coastline. However, speedy rescue of crews in peril was the purpose of the station. In the boathouse on Nellie's Cove, destroyed by fire in the late 1970's there were two 36 foot lifeboats and a whale boat always ready to respond.

It was 500 steps from the lookout tower on the point to the boathouse on the cove. Known as the "Stairs of a Thousand Tears," to fuel the rescue crafts. Coast Guard crewmen carried gasoline in fire-gallon cans down the steps, one can in each hand, until the tanks were full. Visitors can see some of the staircase still intact.

Occupied until the 1960's, Coast Guard personnel stationed at the Heads were welcome in the community and three local women married crew members. After more sophisticated navigational aids were invented and boat rescue was replaced by helicopter, life-saving stations were phased out and few fully functional facilities still stand.

In 1976, the Port Orford property was deeded by the federal government to the state. At first, there was an OSU project to experimentally raise salmon at the site. Later, State Parks took ownership. Currently, parks employees occupy the commander's home and the Point Orford Heritage Society plans a museum for the former barracks building.

If you are interested in spending time with the Oregon Historical Name Board and taking a tour of the former Coast Guard life-saving station, pack up your own bag lunch and meet them at Port Orford Heads State Wayside on Coast Guard Hill at noon on Sunday, May 26.

Lunch-time is scheduled for 12:00 to 12:30 followed by an inspection of the buildings and a walk around the park. After visiting Port Orford, the Name Board expects to go to the Hughes House and Cape Blanco Lighthouse.

Protect your computer from these three dangers: 1) Power problems (surges, spikes, brownouts, etc.) 2) Computer Virus Infections. 3) Overheating.

We've talked a lot in the past about power protection. Don't forget to protect your modem. This recent storm saw some sad folks!

With summer coming on, be sure your computer has good ventilation. If the room temperature gets over 90 degrees, it's a good idea to think about turning the computer off.

Water, Water Everywhere - Not!!!
 By Donna Hoffman, Master Gardener

We've just returned from New Mexico where we helped my brother purchase property. We saw strange-looking plants with weird names like creosote bush, jumping cactus, salt brush and tamarisk trees. It's a ruggedly beautiful place - mountains, mesas, buttes and arroyos - high desert country. And almost no water! Annual rainfall is 7" where we were, just west of Albuquerque. (Elevation is around 6,000 feet and growing season is 3 months if they're lucky!) My brother considers himself very fortunate - he purchased property that had deeded water rights. Some people had drilled for wells, 3 and 4 times with no success. Made me very aware of my water usage and practices.

While we're speaking of water and related issues, the Master Gardeners will be coming involved with a new program which was announced during the President's State of the Union Address. The program is called HOME*A*SYST. It's to help people with their well water and septic systems. How it works, I'll have to let you know shortly. Siggie and I, with a couple of other Master Gardeners, will be attending an O.S.U. workshop next month. One of the simplest things you can do right now, is install a backflow device on your hose bibs. A true story related to us during one of our Master Gardener courses told how a man had hooked one of those canisters to his hose, for weed and feeding and sprayed his lawn. His wife inside the house was refilling the fish tank. Within 3 days, all the fish were dead. They didn't have a backflow device and the water from the hose was able to siphon back into the house's water system. Think about that, the next time you get a drink of water. Stay tuned - the program should prove interesting and informative, even if you don't have well-water or septic.

During the Volkswalk, the Sunset Garden Club will be selling plants, bird-houses, gardening gloves, etc. They will be there all 3 days. The Master Gardeners will have a plant clinic set up next to them, to answer questions about your plants, gardens, etc., except we'll be there Saturday and Sunday only, from 8am till noon. ### Letter To The Editor

I have received several telephone calls and have been stopped on the street by people protesting the cancellation of the May 13, 1996 City Council meeting. I would like to offer a public apology for not requiring documentation from the City manager when she announced that a quorum of the council was not present.

The Council was told by the City Manager that although 4 council members were present, when councilman George Kennedy assumed his role as President of the Council, he would have to give up his role as councilman for the duration of the meeting. This would leave only 3 councilmen at the meeting which is not enough to make up a quorum.

At home after the meeting, I consulted the City Ordinances. Chapter IV of the City Charter Section 17 reads in part, "Whenever the Mayor is unable to perform the functions of his office, the President shall act as Mayor and retain the power as council member." It seems that a quorum of 4 council members were present and that a meeting could have been held as scheduled.

My apologies to the citizens in attendance and especially to those who brought petitions requiring city action.

Councilman Robert Warring

Roaring Sea Open House

Everyone is invited to enjoy the featured artists and musicians at the Last-Sunday-of-the-Month Open House at Roaring Sea Arts, 41687 Highway 101 South, Port Orford, from 2:00 to 5:00, May 26.

Featured this month will be silk art and portraits by Carol Adams of Bandon, who will provide some art-in-action by sketching portraits of anyone willing to be sketched! Lloyd Eiters of Bandon, whose monumental acrylics on wood have amazed us before, and Dave and Shirley Sorensen of Nesika Beach, both of whom are weavers.

Informal music performances will be presented as usual by the Kammeroque Ensemble at 2:15, 3:15 and 4:15.

Come share the entertainment, refreshments, and snacks - which are as usual, pot-luck. It's always fun, and always more fun with more people. If you have questions, call Donna at 332-4444.

NC FCC

If you have questions or comments call Tere Tronson at NC FCC at 332-1042.

Election Results

Incumbent Curry County Commissioners Terry Hanscam and Rocky McVay were swept from office. Both failed to get the nod from voters in their political parties. Hanscam was defeated by challenger Lloyd Olds by a 2 -1 margin while McVay was defeated by challenger Bill Roberts but more narrowly. Roberts won by a 51 - 45% margin.

On the local scene local candidates played to mixed results. Candidate for state legislature and Port Orford city councilor Martha Weaver-Britell won the Democratic primary with 56% of the vote in a race against Steve Beyerlin. Curry County Commissioner candidate for position #3 and Port Orford watershed chairman David Wilken was defeated by Cheryl Thorp. Democratic incumbent State Senate candidate Brenda Brecke beat challenger Doug Inman by 3 -1 margin.

The top two vote getters in the race for Curry County District Attorney were Patrick Foley and John Spicer. Incumbent district attorney Kim Olin failed to make it into the finals. Foley and Spicer will square off in the November election.

Incumbent county assessor Jim Kolen with nearly 70% of the vote easily turned back a challenge from Floyd James.

Voters in Langlois approved an increase in the tax base of their fire department with over 70% of the voters saying yes. Brookings voters turned down an increase in their city tax base.

Measure 24 was defeated by the voters statewide who decided they didn't want to make any changes to the way initiatives qualify for the ballot. Voters passed Measure 23 and Measure 25.

As of press time:

Curry Tax Base Increase: Yes=1,805, No=4,995.

Commissioners: Hanscam=972 vs Olds=1,966; Wilken=992 vs Thorp
