Y-Piles Arrive By Evan Kramer

The Port of Port Orford Commission met Monday night and first off considered a request from Liz Stone to place her catering truck at the dock four or five days a week during the lunch period. Some of the commissioners were concerned about the truck because of the congestion at the dock and also what they should charge Stone for letting her bring the catering truck on port property. The commission decided to let her park the truck on port property for a one-month trial basis with her paying a prorated part of the annual business license fee.

Jack Pruitt asked if the old timbers being removed from the dock would be available to the public. They are being taken to Knapp Ranch for disposal. Pruitt was told to go to the Laskey-Clifton office about getting some of the old timber.

Port Manager Gayle Paige reviewed the status of the permanent dock project. She said Laskey-Clifton started driving the first sheet piles in the ocean last Friday. The Y sheet piles (the most important ones) started arriving last week. Paige said 50% of the fill material has already been brought to the dock. She said Laskey-Clifton started working 12-hour days today. Paige said the existing dock and hoist would be in use a couple more weeks and then a temporary hoist will be erected and in use. Port employees will be trained using the crane as a boat hoist.

Port commissioners agreed to set up a meeting with Doris McKillip with the Army Corps of Engineers on Friday, November 5, at 5:00pm, at the Port office. The Corps will update the Port on studies they have been conducting.

Port commissioner Dave Knapp made a motion to form a committee consisting of Port Commissioners Leesa Cobb and Chris Hawthorne to study the standard lease form. The motion carried unanimously.

The Port received a letter from Carvalho Fisheries requesting an additional 45' by 45' more space on the dock. The Port will renegotiate their lease.

The Commission next looked at the boat parking policy on the dock. Gayle Paige said there was a boat owner who may be refusing to move his boat. Commissioner Scott Macdonald suggested getting together with the fishermen's association and asking them what they want to do about the boat parking situation. Macdonald will organize the meeting, which will try to come up with a parking system. Macdonald asked about the crab pots for the upcoming crab season and Paige told him the fishermen probably wouldn't be able to stage their pots on the dirt surface of the new dock.

Gayle Paige said Richard AuFranc had offered to serve as the Port attorney but he didn't want to litigate or do court cases. Paige pointed out that AuFranc has a history of legal work with the Port and a knowledge of ports in general. She said most of the Port legal work has been contracts and leases, not litigation. She also noted his fairness in what he has charged the Port and that he doesn't charge them for shooting the bull like some other lawyers. Chris Hawthorne said he wanted AuFranc as the Port attorney and the rest of the Commission agreed.

The Commission then discussed the Premium Pacific Seafood lease with owner Mark Barnes. He was told his company owes the Port $4500 which includes a 1% charge on his fish catch for September. Gayle Paige told Barnes he was 60 days past due, not 30 as he had stated. Barnes spoke about problems he had in January and February of this year with bad weather and that some of his customers are behind in paying him. Port

Accident Closes Highway 101 by Evan Kramer

A multi vehicle accident on Tuesday morning blocked Highway 101 at Paradise Point Road. Three people were injured. Traffic headed south on Highway 101 was diverted onto Port Orford Loop Road at Silver Butte and traffic headed north was diverted onto Port Orford Loop Road at Madrona. The Curry County Sheriff's Department, Oregon State Police, Port Orford Police and Port Orford Ambulance responded to the scene. Several local citizens also responded and many helped clear the debris from the highway.

The accident began with a Roto-Rooter waste collection truck which was turning left onto Paradise Point Road at Highway 101. A blue Ford Ranger driven by Port Orford resident Cheryl Andres was rear-ended by an empty log truck as she tried to pass the Roto Rooter truck on the right.

The Andres vehicle then hit the right front edge of the Roto Rooter truck and then hit a Ford 250 XLT truck hauling a fifth wheel trailer. Both the Ford Ranger and Ford 250 were destroyed in the accident.

Andres and the two people in the Ford 250 were transported by Port Orford Ambulance to Curry General Hospital. A spokesperson at Curry General said no one was injured seriously though Andres and one other person would remain in the hospital overnight. Andres' dog Tasha was in her truck and ran away from the scene of the accident. She was found later on in the morning scared but not apparently injured.

There is no left turn lane at Paradise Point Road and Highway 101. I've been told that bad accidents with injuries like this can influence ODOT to add a much needed left turn lane.

Sail Boat Burns

The sail boat Ovidia, a forty-two foot long yawl burned in the early morning hours on Thursday, October 14. It had been anchored in Nellie's Cove near the Port of Port Orford. By the time the boat's owner called in the fire it was fully involved. The Port Orford Fire Department responded to the fire but could do nothing but watch as the Ovidia burned in Nellie's Cove. The department did not know the cause of the fire. The boat was completely destroyed and no sign of it could be seen on Sunday morning.

More Balancing Graeme Graydon

Producing a happier balance in life often requires something quite different from the usual. At the Health Resort in the Catskills, I did everything I could to evoke an unfamiliar experience for our guests. It was standard policy to discourage anyone from coming with a family member, - especially a spouse - it gave everyone a better chance. This opportunity was especially appreciated by a unique group - they were the wives of the rabbis. Their response to our very different balance was sometimes touching, often hilarious. They were able to explore areas normally closed to them and to let their hair down as they never could elsewhere.

At Easier, when I was fifteen, my father took me deer-stalking in a remote mountain valley called Totara Flats. I had been raised to regard Easter as the one church festival that I should never miss. I even felt a little guilty not being in church. We didn't shoot anything but we had three days of adventure. On the way out there was a particularly dangerous moment when we forded a swollen river followed by the grind of a cold and wet five hour trek over the range to our car. My father had found it more important to take his son into the wilderness than to be in church. It was one of the most treasured times I had with him. I found a new space where I wasn't his son, we were men who took risks together and watched out for each other. Much later I saw that he had created a balance - making up for the times we hadn't spend together.

Balance can look pretty peculiar at times. There was a man who could no longer work because of an injury. His wife took over his role as head-of-family and provider. She took him to a new doctor, looking for a better treatment. The doctor, a colleague of mine was able to alter the conditions to a point that the husband could think about returning to work. Without warning the patient stopped coming for treatment. The doctor was told that the couple hadn't expected a cure and weren't ready to give up the comfortable balance that they enjoyed - (he the dependant and she the dominant), and that, accordingly, they would not be seeking further treatment. They chose a balance which seemed to serve them well for that time. Oh well...

Then there was the brainy kid who came into the museum with his mother. He persisted with one question after another - asking me to name twenty or so rock specimens on display. Not my forte.. I was being pushed and didn't want to admit it. He was trying to get me to say "I don't know", so I stopped his interrogation: "Before I give you anymore information, I would like to know what you have learned." Pointing to the first rock I asked, "What is this, called?" The kid couldn't remember a single name I had given him, That was such a delicious balancing moment for me... however, I've since learned that the best balance never comes from getting even. - that's just another imbalance in the opposite direction. I left that kid with the same discomfort that I had felt. A far better way is to be brilliant enough to never leave the other person put down or feeling threatened. It's not easy but when I do manage to pull it off - I feel so proud of me.

Well here I am again. October 14 was Rotary – volunteers working were Roald Young, Pattie Young, Judy Flager, Judy Franklin, America Serra – as most the time Owen Miller doing dishes and other things too. Gee was the dessert good was told Pattie Young made it. I only got one.

October 18 pinocle – guess what – there was popcorn and candy corn – neat huh? All had a good time singing happy birthday to Lu Tubbs and Henry Kron – now high – Dorothy Spencer – 2nd Henry Kron – low Venita Marstahl.

October 23 is luncheon at 11:30am – rummage sale 8:00am to 1:30pm. Lots of new stuff.

Tuesday October 26 membership meeting at 11:00am. All are expected to come – at 9:30am hearing and blood pressure.

October 30 is potluck at 11:30am. All are welcome young and old. I hear there will be prize for best – funniest – anyway come have fun.

Now I'd like to say a great big thank you to Owen Miller for taking care of the money box at the last luncheon and the same to Harold Pace for taking care of the money box at the breakfast. All the work they do and that too. I want to thank the students who help with the luncheon and the breakfast – Megan Losbaugh and Ashley Wilson also James Villareal. Also Mr. Chamberlain for the entertainment at the luncheon.

Well hope this gets printed and I hope I've said it all.

I love trees and this from the poem about trees.

What's New at the Library By Paula Cracas

If you know a young person who likes to read a book and listen to a tape, the Port Orford Library has just received a new shipment of these combinations. Either from the Smithsonian Institution "Backyard" or the Nature Conservancy, the books have beautiful illustrations and engrossing stories.

Tiger Territory by Ann Whitehead Nagda takes place in Chitwan Valley in Nepal where a Bengal tiger with her three cubs struggles to survive amidst rhinos, and tigers and bears. Oh my.

Tamer territory for Monarch Butterfly of Aster Way by Elizabeth Ring, about a long journey of hundreds of miles to winter over in Mexico. The life story of these beautiful creatures: egg to caterpillars to chrysalis to butterfly.

South of the border, way south, is Antarctica and the adelic and emperor penguins. Ice Continent by Louise O. Young is a story of the penguins and the dangerous leopard seals who hunt them.

The story of Orca the whale Pup's frightening adventure when he gets caught in the fishermen's net is the theme of Orca Song by Michael C. Armour. Off the coast of Washington, the whale pod hunts salmon and wanders off leaving Orca the Pup. Will he survive without them? Who will rescue him when he becomes stuck on the sand bar?

Canopy Crossing by Ann Whitehead Nagda takes us to an Atlantic Rainforest where tamarin, frogs, lizards, sloth, and exotic birds live together. An adventure set in Brazil sure to be a hit with young people who like animals.

We have a special section in the library for the above. Ask your friendly librarian. Ask also for the special Halloween packet with puzzles and pictures to color. Ghosts and jack-o-lanterns can be drawn and displayed on the shelves of the children's section.

Don't forget the book sale this Saturday, October 23rd. Check out all the books and plants for sale to benefit our library. See you there.

Hypothermia

Hypothermia, often called the killer of the unprepared, is a drip in the body's core temperature. This condition may pose a real threat to anyone, including fishermen, boaters, hunters and hikers. Lynda Foster is presenting a three-hour workshop emphasizing practical training to prepare students in recognition, prevention and treatment of hypothermia. According to Foster, "By understanding all aspects of hypothermia, you may save a life – possibly your own."

The workshop will be held in Port Orford, Tues., Oct. 26th, from 6pm to 9pm, at the Port Orford City Hall. The cost is $10.00.

Students will learn to define and explain the prevention and treatment of hypothermia. Both dry hypothermia, which may occur in mild weather conditions, and immersion hypothermia will be addressed. Leesa Cobb, of the Port Orford Women's Fishery Network, said in a letter of appreciation for Foster's training, "commercial fishing is the most dangerous occupation in the US. Our industry must take the steps necessary to minimize risks. Safety training is our greatest tool to preserve life and health."

Letter to the Editor,

We would like to use this means of communication to thank all the people who stopped and helped us out when we wrecked last Thursday out by the high school. I don't know everyone's names, so if I leave you out, please forgive me. Thanks to Garrett Heyl who came rushing out from soccer practice and comforted Trinity, to Deputy Ted Longton, who got everything under control and notified all the important people, to Bonnie Herbison who went and to my other daughter and brought her to the scene and also took care of her after, to Justin Potter who was right there with comforting words and warm blankets, to an unnamed lady from Gold Beach who was first at the scene and offered lots of help and to Wayne Moore, who did everything I asked and more. I know the fire truck was there, assume it was from Sixes... thank you. Jim Hogard came and towed my car. The ambulance folks were great and kept us comfortable and assured all the way to Coos Bay. They are Diana Bussmann, Tom Smith and Joel Hensley. Trinity would especially like to thank Joel for the sirens as we were going through towns...she especially like them. I especially need to thank my parents, June Dennison and Lee Heyl, who dropped everything and came running to our rescue as soon as they heard. We love you so much.

Again, thank you one and all. Port Orford is a wonderful place to be when something like this happens to you. You will be happy to know that Trinity and I escaped with bumps, bruises, sprains and strains...nothing that time and prayers won't heal.

Most sincerely,

Delaine and Trinity Kennedy

State Parks Master Plan
By Kathy Schutt

On June 25, 1999 the Oregon Parks and Recreation Commission, a statewide group appointed by the Governor to oversee the Oregon Parks and Recreation Department, decided to defer any recommendation on the Draft Curry County State Parks Master Plan until certain issues regarding the Canopy Project were resolved.

The Commission's next regularly scheduled meeting is November 4, 1999 at Tryon Creek State Park beginning at approximately 1:00pm. There is no agenda available at this time. At this meeting, the Commission is scheduled to reconsider approval of the draft Curry County Master Plan and authorize OPRD to initiate rule making. In addition, staff will update the Commission on the current status of the Canopy Walk Board and the project's grants.

At the June meeting, staff suggested five options for the Commission to consider regarding the Canopy Walk proposals in the draft master plan. The Commission deferred their decision because at the time, the Canopy Walk Board was unsure whether the grantors would convey the remaining grant funds to another entity other than Curry County, and if so, what entity would receive and administer the grants and contracts and where the required matching funds would come.

The Commission will be reviewing the alternatives at this meeting for a second time, in light of current situations regarding the Canopy Walk Board and the status of the grants.

The Commission Meeting is open to the public. Written testimony should be addressed to: Kristen Stallman, Oregon Parks and Recreation Department, 1115 Commercial St. NE, Suite I, Salem, OR 97301. E-mail address is kristen.stallman@state.or.us and my phone number is 503-378-4168, extension 265 or contact Kristen Stallman at 503-378-4168, extension 328.

Tryon Creek State Park is located adjacent to the City of Portland and is 275 miles from Port Orford.

Light the Candles
By Henrietta Dee Hansohn

Things are looking up at St. Christopher's Episcopal Church in Port Orford. First of all – the church has a newly painted face. Someone said, "Didn't know it was there, at all. But now it shines in all its new paint."

This writer had only one thing to say. If someone would climb up on the pitch of the roof, bring me the cross I will happily add a Celtic circle to it and paint the thing gold and will even furnish the paint!

All the new additional improvements were brought about by our Jr. Warden, Cliff Goldman and his wife Sharen. Even saw them digging up or cutting down a Chinese Elm tree that was rubbing up against the side of the building. Didn't dare mention to those hard workers that I was the rascal that planted all those trees forty years ago. Oh well, guess the word is out now. The Sunday school is back in swing again but we need students so the teacher doesn't have to study alone.

Our new missionary, Fr. Reginald C. Rodman visited us on October 10 and performed the communion service for us. He recently moved to Bandon to make his home there. He served in Hawaii for twelve years as a priest at Christ's Church, also worked as consultant to the Queen's Health Systems for three years. Very interesting fellow and some of you older residents would be amazed at how much like our beloved former priest – Peter Dally – he is. He even looks a bit like him!

We want to give very special thanks to our organist, Joan McDow, on October 10. Even though she had just gotten out of Bay Area Hospital she graciously sat at the organ and played for the service.

Our Sunday services are held at 10:00am each Sunday and we have two communion services per month and two Morning Prayer services also. Like to see you there soon!

President, Chamber of Commerce

The Port Orford Chamber of Commerce held its regular Board of Directors meeting last Wednesday at the Port and Starboard Restaurant.

A very low Chamber bank balance was discussed. It was mentioned that the melodrama in November would bring in enough money to just about get the Chamber to end of the year. President Jay Stoler said, "We need to do four to six fundraisers a year."

Chamber office manager Mechelle Billings said she had just come back from a one-week grant writing course and granting agencies want to also see lots of fundraising activities.

The Chamber board approved requesting donations to cover printing and mailing

The Second Annual Community Christmas Tree Lighting will happen on Sunday, December 5, at 5:00pm at Driftwood Elementary School. The Chamber will partner with the Lightin' Bugs and other community groups to provide an entertaining and meaningful kick-off to the holiday season. A visit by Santa Claus is very likely.

The Chamber will be holding elections in December and a nominating committee was selected to nominate six candidates for three board positions. Board members must be full Chamber members and serve for a three-year term. Interested parties can contact any Chamber board member or call Mechelle Billings at 332-8055. The next Chamber gathering will be the membership meeting at Bartlett's Café on Monday, October 25 at noon.

Letter to the Editor,

As an employee of the 2CJ School District, and a parent of 2CJ students, I wanted to respond to the letter last week with regards to the traffic in Langlois.

There are two school zones in Langlois, one for the grade school and one for the middle school building. Both zones are clearly marked with signs and overhead flashing lights. Local students walk to and from both of these schools daily without benefit of sidewalks or even a wide bike lane. Traffic in front of these schools not only exceed the 20 MPH zone constantly, but also the 40 MPH town limit. To further add to this scene is the 2 CJ school bus that shuttles students back and forth between the buildings every 45 minutes. My suggestion is to set up a "neighborhood watch" type program. When you see a speeding commercial vehicle, please call the company and report the driver. If you see your friend or neighbor speeding through this area, please remind them of the speed limit. I would like to thank the Oregon State Police for the two patrol cars in Langlois on October 13th!!

Remember – every student in our community is somebody's child, grandchild, cousin, neighbor, or friend. We can't afford to lose a single one. Give Our Kids a Brake!

Langlois Public Library News by Tobe Porter, Director

These crunchy mornings and crisp evenings mean that it's about time for the third annual Langlois Crafts and Collectibles Holiday Fair. This event is the product of a great partnership with members of the Langlois Lions, a creative and energetic group of folks who make working together easy (they are good cooks, too). This year's Fair will be Friday and Saturday, October 19 and 20 from 9am to 4pm at the Langlois Lions' Club.

To reserve a table, call me at 332-4340 or Velma Foster at 348-2351 for an application. The price of an 8' space for the two days is $15. We have had an excellent turnout in the past, and looking at what we have already booked, it promises to be another quality Fair.

A shipment of new books just arrived.

Mystery readers will want to settle in for a good read with either Walkin' the Dog by Walter Mosley or Dick Francis' Second Wind. Baby Bird's First Nest by Frank Asch and Dear Children of the Earth by Schim Schimmel will delight the eyes and ears of children of all ages. The piece de resistance by far, however, is the most glorious cookbook imaginable, Richard Olney's Provence: The Beautiful Cookbook.

The road to our new library is finished. We're getting ready to apply for the building permit. A library shelf rep. is visiting next week. We are closer by 10,362 local dollars, plus 8,000 more from local corporations. The dream is coming true.

I have had it with truckers (and cars) passing me on the right, while I attempt to make a left turn at Highway 101 and Paradise Point Road. I have even been passed on the left, while attempting to make a left-hand turn.

Today, there was a massive accident, apparently caused by a trucker passing on the right.

Commission chairman Leesa Cobb said she would like to see the bill caught up and paid on time. She said she doesn't want the Port carrying a business. Barnes said the PPS debt was $10,500 when he took over. He said a large source of his income is live fish and with the construction it is more difficult getting water to keep them alive. He asked a couple of times what the Port would be willing to do for him. Scott Macdonald said every fisherman was going to take a hit on the dock construction and asked pointedly if the Port could subsidize everyone. Gayle Paige told Barnes he has the more space than anyone has at the Port and pays less rent than the other tenants do. She continued that the other tenants are staying current on the leases. Barnes responded to these remarks by saying there was no giving on the part of the Port, but instead all taking. Despite the amount of time spent discussing the issue no resolution was achieved.

The Commission expressed concern with water coming out of the pipe from the fill area below the Castaway Motel. It will be on next month's agenda.

More of the old wooden dock has been removed and there is now just a narrow alley left for boats to be towed to the yellow "permanent" hoist. There is now a sign stating that only one boat is allowed at a time on the dock.

A While Ago By Jane Cramer

A while ago I learned about a grassroots citizen effort to keep billboards from spoiling the pristine beauty of the southern Oregon coast. This anti-billboard campaign occurred 72 years ago, and shows that south coast residents have always appreciated the natural wonders of their area.

When the Roosevelt Highway was opened in 1927 the portion of the road from Marshfield to Crescent City was called the most scenic highway in America. An article in Oregon Business stated "So much has been written concerning 'the last frontier' that there is danger of causing this phrase to lose its power, but if there remains a shred of suggestion in the words, they are applicable to Curry County in the extreme southwestern corner of Oregon."

When the Shell Oil Company began to erect billboards along the new highway, people were afraid the beauty of this road would be destroyed and it would be completely plastered with signs like other Oregon highways.

Save The Roosevelt! Became the rallying cry. Newspaper articles and editorials proclaimed that public money built the highway and the people should have a say in protecting the natural beauty. Since the oil companies profit from travel, they should safeguard the rights of those who put up the money. Letters and article from PO News were reprinted in the Oregon Journal.

The successful campaign convinced 141 large national advertisers, including Shell Oil, that business could succeed without using the landscape for advertising and they agreed to restrict billboards to commercial districts. A December 13, 1927 Port Orford News article reported that the highway was free of billboards except for a few isolated signs which would soon be down.

To make sure the highway remained this way, the Port Orford Chamber of Commerce launched a campaign to get landowners along the route to sign cards, pledging that they would refuse to permit signs to be erected or painted on fences and buildings for a period of two years.

W.P. Young, who owned 25 acres of property along the highway south of Hubbard's Creek and between the Roosevelt Highway and Pacific Ocean, signed Pledge Card #1, which was titled 'County of Curry Pledge to Prohibit Commercial Advertising on Private Property.'

100 miles of highway from Bandon to the California line were free of signs by January 1928 due to the efforts of dedicated people a while ago.
