Radio Active Community?

By Linda Tarr

Partly in response to an outpouring of nation-wide grassroots activism, the Federal Communications Commission has opened an application window for licenses for full-power non-commercial educational radio stations, and included in their point system a preference for 'local diversity'. This means that there is a greater chance of getting a license for a station that is producing its own broadcasts locally and including educational content of relevance to local citizens. It has been over 7 years since an application window has been opened and there is no way of knowing when it will occur again.

North Curry Families' and Children's Center has recognized this opportunity and partnered with the 2CJ school system in applying for such a license. The FCC offers no information as to how long it will take to determine whether a license will be granted. But, if NCFCC is one of the new licensees, this community will have three years to raise the money to build a station and begin broadcasting. The frequency and antenna location applied for would allow for full-power clear reception from Bandon to Humbug Mountain. Since FM transmissions are 'line of site', the signal will be carried from Stone Butte to the entire coastal plain and for quite a ways out to sea. It will reach most of the hilly areas below 396 meters above sea level. It will reach a short ways up the Sixes and Elk River canyons.

The vision for North Curry Community Radio is one in which local people are active in producing content that is relevant and useful to the listeners. The 2CJ School Board responded to the enthusiastic interest of Robert Tiffany, the new technology teacher at Pacific High School, supporting him in offering curricula related to a radio station. Students will be able to learn the technical skills involved in building and running a station and be responsible, under supervision, for some of the on-air broadcasts. One suggestion is that the schools' sporting events could be covered on the radio. A high priority would be that the radio would play an important role in giving a voice to students in our community and informing the community of the activities of the schools.

Community Radio would also fulfill its educational mission by partnering with local adult literacy efforts, making local information available to those for whom written material is inaccessible. It would further the existing 'Mommy and Me' program, by providing information about parenting for listeners in the community. It would also be wonderful to further NCFCC's elder wisdom project by continuing to interview elders in our community and putting their voices, and knowledge of local history, on the air.

An important role of local radio would be to provide news of relevance to the community, including state and national news. This community radio station would not duplicate the NPR coverage already provided by Jefferson Public Radio. It would be a goal, however, to provide news of the State of Oregon, which is currently unavailable. Another suggestion is to carry 'Democracy Now', a syndicated national news service which would be available for free, for one year. It would also be great to broadcast news and information related to our local port, fishers, farmers and ranchers, outdoorspeople, scientists, artists, and artisans.

Local radio is extremely useful in providing emergency information and local weather alerts. There are FEMA funds available to help sustain such broadcasts.

But community radio will also entertain. A large part of the programming would be music played by volunteer DJ's who want to share their particular knowledge and passion for all genres of music. The bees knees would be to have live performances by local and visiting musicians. Also, live radio theatre would be possible, as well as literary readings and interviews. Many people have an interest in reading stories on the air, particularly to children. And there are some wonderful creative shows such as 'This American Life' and 'RadioLab', to which we could subscribe if funding allowed.

The key to community radio is community participation and support. The vision is not to have a slick, professional, predictable format like the ones that are already available. The idea is to have lively, open-minded, diverse programming that reflects the character of the community; engaging, challenging, encouraging, and hopefully, upfull.

It is never too soon to show your support for community radio. Your donations to help cover the cost of the telecommunications engineer who provided the indispensable technical expertise for the

On the Road Again
By Evan Kramer

Sunday was Stampfest 2007 at the Seven Feathers Hotel and Casino Resort in Canyonville. Valerie and I hit the road early in order to get to the stamp show which opened at 10:00am. We saw a beautiful red sky at the Sixes River looking to the east and it boded well for the rest of the “dry” day. We took Highway 101 to 42 and then over to Coquille and Winston before turning south on 99 through Dillard and going past the Roseburg Forest Products Mill. There are plenty of trains on the tracks adjacent to and in the various mill site buildings but no more of them in Coos Bay.

There weren’t a lot of vendors at the Stampfest held in one of the convention center rooms at the casino but there were enough good ones to keep Valerie occupied for over four hours. Since I don’t collect stamps I went off and did two of my favorite things which are walking and exploring. I drove the one mile to the center of Canyonville (population 1,382) and then walked all over town on the very quiet Sunday morning. Downtown Canyonville’s main street parallels Interstate 5 and is two short blocks to the east of the freeway. That’s where the traffic was as there was very little of it in Canyonville. The town has a lovely city park one block off the main drag with a creek running through it and a covered wooden bridge over it for pedestrians and bicycles. The town had held their annual pumpkin festival the day before, so all I got to see of it was people taking the trash away on Sunday morning.

I drove back for lunch and we went under the freeway to the tribal owned truck stop, gas station and restaurant and ate at the 1950’s-feeling Creekside Restaurant.

We went back to the hotel so Valerie could spend more time at the stamp show and I could continue my explorations. This time I spent some time in the valet park area noticing how much traffic was flowing in that Sunday afternoon. After being suitably impressed I explored the casino again but didn’t stick long at the slot machine I chose to contribute to. As the slot machines no longer take coins and no longer have handles to pull I felt like time had passed me by, so I did my thing and got up and left for another saunter through the neighborhood. This time I headed north from the casino into the residential/agricultural neighborhood and came across a small farm with a pumpkin patch and lots of good looking locally grown produce for sale. The pumpkin patch was a big hit with the many families that came by to buy. It’s always a pleasure to be able to buy produce from where it was grown and see the land at its most productive.

By 3:00pm it was time for even Valerie to feel ready to leave so we headed back north on 5 to 42 and back home again. The fall colors along 42 made the drive both ways special and well worth. Though most of the trees are evergreens there are enough deciduous trees turning yellow and orange and brown to brighten up the drive.

Letter to the Editor,

Vote No on Measure 49. Our Oregon state capital building is capped with the time honored symbol of the founders of this wonderful state, a golden pioneer. Our forefathers came west in search of a better life, their own property, individual freedom, that the Oregon Promised Land gave to early pioneers.

Time-honored individual property rights will be destroyed if Measure 49 passes. Oregon property owners on farms, ranches, and other land classifications will lose their time honored property rights and individual freedom if this “terrible piece of Legislation passes”. Vote No on 49 – Protect individual property rights!

Letter to the Editor,

Unlike the author of a recent letter to the editors, I have read the entire Measure 49, and all 61 pages of arguments, both for and against this measure. To alert voters, I must write and inform people that his measure was passed in the legislature by one vote, and, after passage, the Oregon Supreme Court was not allowed to preview it before it was included on the ballot. It is interesting to note that some of those in favor of the measure include "The Nature Conservancy", who funded it with $1,000,000. These are the people responsible for the loss of jobs, in both the fishing and timber industries, and the revenue created by these jobs, with restrictive and oppressive regulations on both industries.

Furthermore, in reading the letters opposing the measure, I discovered not one, I repeat, not even one major land developer! In fact, they were composed of farmers and legislators who voted against the bill, because it further restricts what you can do with your own property, and gives the State of Oregon the right to determine the land's use. It is written such that if you object or appeal the state's decision you must pay for not only your attorney, and appraiser, but also the government attorney and appraiser, even if you win! If this horrible measure passes, state and local government will be able to pass new land use regulations that can destroy the value of your home and property without compensation! In reading over the "yes" statements, I was struck by the fact that almost all of these requests for subdivision of property under Measure 37, were for an average lot size between two and a half and five acres. This is not the subdivisions that we saw used as scare tactics, which have many people believing thousand acres were going to be covered by 50' by 60' lots with way too many homes! Not true! The legislature and those in favor of passage of Measure 49 are counting on the fact that 99% of the people looking the measure over won't read past the first page. Remember folks, this measure is to "fix" 37, which was passed by two thirds of the voters in this State, and regards only 1% of the land in the whole state. We need to defeat this ill-conceived land grab by the State that wants to tell you what you can and can't do with your property! No on 49.

Thank you,

Jim Kuhn

Unwanted Inheritance

Doctor Robert Bolin will talk about and sign his debut novel, Unwanted Inheritance, at 11 AM this Saturday, October 27 at Gold Beach Books. The novel seeks to capture a family's love and devotion in the face of life-changing cancer. Having over 20 years of practice as an oncologist on the south coast of Oregon, with many years at the North Bend Medical Center, Dr. Bolin is very familiar with cancer treatment, as well as with the coastal area in which the novel is set.

The novel's main character, a young teacher with a husband and two daughters, is living an idyllic life on a small south coast farm when breast cancer wreaks havoc in her psyche and with her marriage. The novel spans a generation as the protagonist copes with post-cancer challenges, including one of her grown daughter's own cancer battles, until a discovery of a unique genetic defect, and a subsequent dramatic revelation, put her on a path to healing.

Unusual for a novel, there are extensive chapter notes at the end, plus a glossary of medical terms. The notes discuss the medical aspects of cancer, explaining various statements made by the novel's characters. The notes draw richly from Dr. Bolin's medical experience and cover a wide range of topics, from current cancer research to relevant Oregon laws, and include information about south coast locales.

Bookstore owner Ted Watkins says, "Dr. Bolin is an accomplished and witty speaker, who entertains as well as educates; he makes new fans wherever he goes."

The book signing is open to all without charge. Those unable to attend the signing may order signed copies in advance by telephoning the bookstore at (541) 247-2495. Gold Beach Books is located on Pacific Highway 101 and First Streets in Gold Beach.

Port General Bond Tax

One of the few taxing districts which saw a fluctuation in the tax rates was the Port of Port Orford for the general obligation bond measure passed by voters nearly ten years ago. The tax rate increased six cents per thousand dollars this year for the Port but only on the general obligation bond.

Voters in the Port District passed a $1.5 million dollar General Obligation bond and are paying for it over 20 years. The bond payment this year is for $118,000 and is due on December 1. The Port District imposed a tax rate totaling $114,000 for the bond and will make up the difference with money left over from last year. The payment goes to the Bank of New York and all contractors who worked on building the new Port have been paid.

Looking at your property tax bill you'll see the general obligation bond issue is on there but not listed as a general bond payment. It is listed under the column for "excluded from limitation": Port-Port Orford.

The Port of Port Orford general tax levy is listed under the category general obligation and is limited by law to a 3% increase each year. There is no limitation on a general obligation bond. The important thing is the Port has to collect enough money each year to make the bond payment on December 1. The Port inadvertently collected the general obligation tax the first few years after it was passed in advance of when they were supposed to and then didn't collect it for a few years to get even again. Now they are on course but had to raise the tax by six cents per thousand to insure full payment of the bond.

Letter to the Editor,

The people behind Oregonians in Action, the special interest group, seem to have been caught by their own greed.

When the group promoted Measure 37, they touted it as a remedy for little old ladies aggrieved by Oregon's land use planning laws.

Then the Measure 37 claims started pouring in. And we learned it was a wolf in sheep's clothing. We saw the claims coming in for large scale suburban sprawl, strip malls and so on.

So now, in their anti-49 campaign, Oregonians in Action is saying that, well, the people that filed those egregious claims didn't really mean what they said in their claims.

Folks, you know the saying...hit me once shame on you, hit me twice shame on me.

Don't be deceived, again. Please Vote 'yes' on Measure 49.

Letter to the Editor,

Measure 49 is a good fix for Measure 37, which was passed in the name of property rights but has turned out to be a disaster that threatens to chop up Oregon's farms, forests, and ranchlands.

Measure 49 is based on a compromise forged in the legislature that gives long-time property owners the opportunity to build 3 to 10 homes but says no to large-scale commercial developments on these productive resource lands. Measure 49 is supported by Gov. Kulongoski, several former governors including Kitzhaber, Roberts, and Atiyeh, by the League of

At this crucial time when the world is finally starting to think seriously about reducing energy consumption, a shift of public policy to encourage sprawl (which means more driving) and destruction of farms (which means more imported foods) is utterly backwards.

Taser Trainer

Officer John Fink of the Port Orford Police Department recently completed training through Taser International and is now a certified Taser Instructor. The Taser is a defensive weapon that delivers 50,000 volts of electricity but with very low amperage. The Taser can shoot barbed darts out to as far as 32 feet which stick into a suspect and then delivers a five second or shorter shot of electricity into the subject temporarily incapacitating them long enough to allow officers to secure them. The device can also be used without the darts as a direct contact stun gun. According to Chief Creighton "The Taser is the best piece of equipment we have. It is a less than lethal alternative to the night stick, and handgun and it has proven to prevent serious injury to officers and suspects by limiting hands-on altercations. In the past, officers used hands on techniques which usually caused injury to someone. When an officer utilizes equal force to subdue a violent suspect, the chances of serious injury to that officer dramatically escalates and in situations where officers are overpowered has resulted in officers being seriously injured and even shot with their own weapon. The Taser allows the alternative for a suspect to comply prior to using blunt or deadly force. In the past, our depart-

This “girls with guns” flick has been called a female version of Mad Max and stars Milla Jovovich. If you haven’t heard of Milla you might remember her as the orange haired heroine of The Fifth Element. A stunning sci-fi-esque movie filled with comedy, action, awesome visual effects and Bruce Willis at his sweaty best.

Previously I wrote of my love of the director Quentin Tarantino, having just watched his latest feature DeathProof I was disappointed in the lack of originality. Most of the characters were ones stolen from his old movies and while I enjoy his use of dialogue it was too much of a good thing making the film sluggish.

In the employee’s picks section make sure to check out “Romeo and Juliette” with Leonardo DiCaprio and Claire Danes for eye candy and all the feelings of love. Another forgotten great, “Dangerous Beauty” set in Venice and full of surprises. Brenda says “Meet the Robinsons” is even better than “Surf’s Up” and for more scoops on recent movies pick up a Pirate Parchment for Signey Tronson’s excellent reviews.

Common Good Needs Support

Port Orford's food bank, The Common Good, needs your support. Government surplus food is nearly non-existent, leaving us to make ends meet with the generosity of the community. We can use items such as canned peaches, pears, and applesauce, corn, carrots, and green beans, pork and beans, chili beans and stew, tuna or salmon, saltine crackers, hamburger helper, cereals, frozen juices especially orange juice, canned or bottled juices and tea and coffee.

If you have time to shop and make a fresh or frozen delivery please make it on Wednesdays. Store purchased fresh vegetables can be distributed including potatoes, onions, lettuce, apples, oranges, tomatoes, etc. Frozen vegetables and fruits are also good.

Cash donations are used to fill in with fresh items such as milk, eggs, margarine, break, meat, etc. You can bring your donation next week, or drop it off in the food barrels at Chetco, Sterling Savings Bank, or Java John's. Please: no dented, expired, rusted, out of date, or recalled foods. We can't use them.

The Common Good is open on Wednesdays and is located on Idaho Street just to the north of the corner of Fourteenth Street.

Pumpkin Patch a Success

Despite rain showers and a hail storm, the Fourth Annual Boosters Pumpkin Patch was a success. Thank you to our many supporters who braved the weather to come pick out a pumpkin and grab a bite to eat. A big thank you to Sterling Savings Bank for providing Halloween sacks and safety lights to each and every child who visited us. The Pumpkin Patch has become an annual event put on by Booster clubs at Driftwood and Blanco Schools. Money raised during this event, as well as all the money raised through out the year, is put back into the curriculum of your local schools to help support activities such as: student incentives, field trips, assemblies, books fairs and the accelerated reader program. We also use our funds to buy more books for our libraries, purchase new sports and playground equipment as well as fulfill a variety of teacher requests.

Just 3 days after our Pumpkin Patch we have kicked off our very popular Cookie Dough fundraiser. We work with a local Oregon company who provides premium pre-made, frozen cookie dough as well as jerky sticks. With this fundraiser, the students work hard to help the Boosters raise money, so please show your support if you are approached by one of our student helpers. As always, thanks for your continued support.

American Roots

Singer/songwriter Zack Freiwald will offer a free concert at 8:00pm this Saturday, October 27 at the Biscuit Showroom inside Gold Beach Books.

Freiwald's original guitar music has been called "American roots," with blue collar underpinnings, drawing on his life experiences as a U.S. Army veteran and firefighter with the U.S. Forest Service. In a Bruce Springsteen-fashion, his lyrics combine themes of love, war and the struggles of a working man in today's world.

"I have a hard time describing my music," Freiwald says, adding, "Some kids tell me it's like country, older people say it reminds them of songs they heard long ago." Difficulty in categorizing his music is a trait Freiwald shares with his cousin, musician Jack Johnson, whose breakthrough national album, "Brushfire Fairytales," has similar mixed themes.

Saturday's concert is open to all without charge. Gold Beach Books is located on Pacific Highway 101 and First Streets in Gold Beach.
