Remember The Silver Door By Evan Kramer

This past Saturday afternoon the Port Orford Public Library held a very merry unbirthday party and cake auction and drew a nice crowd of people. Port Orford Librarian Tobe Porter got things underway with a brief talk about the library which is of course now open seven days a week – in itself quite a feat. Our library was recently selected by the Library Journal as one of America's Star Libraries. The data on our library was collected in 2009 and we received our excellent score in July of this year. The scores were based on circulation, visits, public internet use and program attendance. We were rated with libraries in the $100,000-$199,000 budget range.

The Library Journal article about the Port Orford Library noted that donations, government grants and private grants paid for the entire cost of the $2.2 million project and that a voter approved bond measure was not needed though it did pass. The library opened in July of 2008 debt free and has stayed that way. One thing that worked out to Port Orford's benefit is our library is not county funded like those in other Oregon counties like Josephine and Jackson where libraries were forced to close due to budget cuts. They may have reopened but either with volunteer labor only or as in the case of the big downtown Medford library only open 24 hours a week and they are not open on Thursday, Friday and Sunday at all. Our library has its own taxing district and has had one since the library district levy passed on March 29, 1983; the voters having approved the formation of a library district on November 2, 1982. (thanks to Shirley Nelson and her book "Home at Last" which is a history of the Port Orford Library. At one time Curry County's libraries were county funded but with the county now facing bankruptcy that would have been a catastrophe for the libraries if they hadn't gotten their own taxing districts.

The cake auction was conducted by Rolando Rodriguez with the first cake going to the winning bidder for $75. The cakes and pie had all been donated by local people and businesses. Some cakes went for $75 with others going for prices of $30 and $35. The auction raised about $1,100 for the library. Tobe Porter interrupted the cake auction to talk about the Port Orford Library Foundation Board whose goal it is to be build an endowment fund of $500,000 so that the library can stay independent and debt free forever. The tax base isn't sufficient to pay people what they are worth and if it wasn't for the large pool of volunteers the library couldn't be open as many hours as it is. The interest or earnings off the endowment fund will be used to help fund library business from employees to books and supplies.

The cake auction I won was for a coconut cream pie made by Paul and Pat Lee. Pat used to be the assistant librarian under Bonnie Wagner when the library was located at Port Orford City Hall. Her and husband Paul also owned and operated the now legendary restaurant The Silver Door. It was located where the Crazy Norwegian's is now though it was much smaller. The Lee's made a few dishes each day; say Swiss steak and mashed potatoes, lasagna, baked chicken or pizza. They also served homemade pies and coffee and when they sold out of that day's entrees that was it and there was no more food until the next day. They did not fry their food but baked it and the special ingredient always was love of what they were doing and for their customers. The restaurant closed in 1993 and is fondly remembered by many. It was a sign of the changing times that at the cake auction there were many cake bidders who didn't know what Tobe Porter was talking about when she spoke of the Silver Door whose famous slogan was

"Remember the Silver Door." And the Lee's believed in us and our newspaper right from the first edition on November 2, 1990 and put in a display ad with our yet unproven business.

People were treated to a slice of Happy Unbirthday cake, made by Brenda Dell, in the Freedom of Speech room. It was a huge triple layer vanilla, strawberry and chocolate cake delightfully decorated and now only exists in the photos Brenda took of it.

We all use the library differently. Since we have Internet at home and our store I don't need to use their computers but what I like is their selection of good old fashioned books – no Kindle for me just yet. I recently checked out The Reckoning by David Halberstam and though it took me three weeks I did read the entire 734 page book dealing with the rise and decline of the American auto industry as told through the Ford Company and the rise and rise of the Japanese auto industry as told through the Nissan Company. Along the way the book takes on the subject of American and Japanese labor unions, the rise of oil prices and OPEC and the fierce struggles between car or product people and finance people within the companies. It's a great read and has been a part of our library since April of 1987. My other recommendations are the police novels written by Joseph Wambaugh which don't take three weeks to read and of which the library has many titles.

Letter To The Editor,

Tim Jackson on a TED Talk [TED.com] stated that we have been "persuaded to spend money we don't have on things we don't need to create impressions that won't last on people we don't care about". Do we really need all the Stuff the commercials want us to buy? We vote with our dollars and lessening the flow of money to the mega corporations that are controlling the economy and the government will have an impact.

Boycotting is one thing that can really have an effect. Buying organic or local usually supports smaller diversified farms, and not the big corporations who have infiltrated and corrupted our government.

Wake up Society, quit letting yourself be convinced to drive all over the place to buy things that really aren't necessary or good for you, and are just profiting rich corporations that really don't care about your wellbeing. Start encouraging businesses that have more of your wellbeing in mind. Be a part of the solution, Co-ops are part of the solution. Now soon, we can have a food and local product Co-op in town. The Port Orford CommUnity Co-op will be a community operated business that is run democratically for the good of all, to promote good nutrition, wellness, education, and local and organic food producers. On November 30 at 6pm at City Hall there will be an open meeting for the Port Orford CommUnity Co-op. Be there, so we can make a difference.

New PO Fire Truck

The Port Orford Volunteer Fire department is delighted to announce the arrival of our "new to us" pumper/fire engine!!! This is the culmination of years of dedicated work by numerous people. This project began nearly 3 years ago when Port Orford Fire Captain David Johnson alerted us to the possible availability of grant funds for the purchase of a pumper. A grant was written and with great foresight the then seated Port Orford Rural Fire District Board (John Johnston, Edna Auld, Marie Van Aart, Ed Tennant and Rick Hazard), voted to commit matching District funds (a requirement to receive the grant). So much time passed with no notification that we assumed the grant would not happen. Then suddenly, we were approved for the funding. That was August of 2010.

It has taken over a year of constant daily searching to find the truck that met our needs. Hundreds of hours, emails, phone calls ensued during that time. There were many days when we felt we would not find what we wanted for the price we could afford. We had several "almost", many "maybes" and numerous disappointments.

NOW the truck is HERE!!!! It is awesome and all that we had hoped it would be. It is a 2004 Pierce Contender, capable of carrying 8 firefighters. It has fewer than 20,000 miles on it. It has 5 air pack seats, carries 1000 gallons of water and has tremendous horse power for our steep hills. The length and turning radius will allow us into tight areas. It is lime/safety green with a blue stripe. Rather than spend the money to paint it red, we will spend the money on equipment.... so when you see "The Green Machine", look for the Port Orford name on the side.

We still have many hours to devote to the truck before it is in service. We must outfit it with our remaining grant funds, run it through many trial tests and learn about it. Nonetheless, we are excited that it is here and we are anxious to get it into service for you.

Many thanks to those who have worked so long and hard on this project. Our community will benefit for many, many years to come. David Johnson, Assistant Chiefs Wade Phillips and David Duncan deserve special recognition as does Edna Auld for their incredible time commitment and attention to detail. We also wish to thank Bruce Curtain with the USDA for his steadfast support help and encouragement.

“Light Up A Life”

The annual “Light Up A Life” Campaign, organized each year by Coastal Home Health & Hospice, has begun with residents throughout the county receiving the brightly colored informational brochures in their mail boxes. This worthwhile event, which is held nationwide, celebrates the life of loved ones during the holiday season by providing a unique way to acknowledge special people in our lives.

For a donation of any amount, the program will place a commemorative ornament on one of the Hospice Holiday Trees, with the name of the person being recognized. The ornament is then given to the donor (or recipient of choice) after the holidays. Tree locations this year will be at Chetco Community Public Library in Brookings; Curry Public Library in Gold Beach and Port Orford Public Library.

In addition to providing an opportunity to positively remember loved ones, this project also provides funding towards the care of the terminally ill and their families. While many patients have insurance, others do not, and the fundraising assures that care is provided to all individuals, regardless of the ability to pay.

Community Co-Op Meeting

A meeting to update citizens about the progress of the Port Orford CommUnity Co-op is scheduled for November 30th at 6:00 pm in the Port Orford City Council Chambers. Everyone is encouraged to attend this meeting and learn about the co-op's progress and how they can become involved. The Port Orford CommUnity Co-op steering committee members are committed to launching a store that will enhance the community by establishing a year-round market to showcase local/regional food, crafts, and services.

The concept of a local co-op began early this year when local citizens saw a need and an opportunity to invest in Port Orford through local food and products. The committee has worked diligently with project manager, Susan Brown, and Northwest Cooperative Development Center to build a solid foundation for the co-op. There are still many areas of research and planning that need to be completed. The scheduled community meeting will highlight the progress of the co-op and present the work that still needs to be accomplished.

The Port Orford CommUnity Co-op committee applied for grant funding through USDA, supported by the City of Port Orford, and received a grant award of $15,000 to develop all of the planning documents and business structure plans. The grant will fund the development of these documents by contracting with Northwest Cooperative Development Center for the feasibility study and marketing analysis, and Susan Brown Project Development for the business and marketing plan, business and board of directors structure, strategic planning, membership drive, website and project management. The committee will donate hundreds of hours of volunteer time towards the grant funded project, and it is important to note that the City of Port Orford is not expending any of its financial resources, but will assist in non-financial ways.

A cooperative (also co-operative or co-op) is a business organization owned and operated by a group of individuals for their mutual benefit. A cooperative is defined by the International Cooperative Alliance's Statement on the Cooperative Identity as "an autonomous association of persons united voluntarily to meet their common economic, social, and cultural needs and aspirations through jointly owned and democratically controlled enterprise". A cooperative may also be defined as a business owned and controlled equally by the people who use its services or by the people who work there.

The Co-op steering committee is looking for volunteers to assist in the planning efforts and invites you to learn more about the project and how you can help. For more information go to the co-op website at www.portorfordcoop.org or call Susan Brown at 541-404-3417.

Letter To The Editor,

The economy is rocky and most of us are struggling in one way or another. Please remember your local merchants as you plan your holiday shopping. Of course we cannot compete in the price category with any of the big stores and outlets. And we can't compete with catalog companies and their "free shipping" or "free" if you spend a certain amount (calculated to get you to spend more). We Can Compete in the outstanding customer service category. We certainly Can Compete in the contribute to our local organizations category (scholarships, library, Rotary, Meals on Wheels, Common Good, Volunteer Fire and Ambulance, Heritage Society and more). None of the out of town shopping possibilities contributes to any of these organizations that are so much a part of our town.

Think of what is available here...so many different possibilities. Each one of your merchants works hard to stay afloat and we all contribute to the local economy as well. We rarely get out of town so the money we earn here stays here. Those of us that hire workers support families here in our town. Think of us first before you head off out of town. Give gifts that are unique to Port Orford: pottery, art, wreaths, glass art, jewelry, myrtlewood art, handmade items etc. Give gift certificates for services (food, coffee, video rentals, oil change, framing, office supplies, natural foods, dog wash, hardware, tree service, bookkeeping, haircuts, meals out) found here in town. Donate to our local organizations in someone's name.

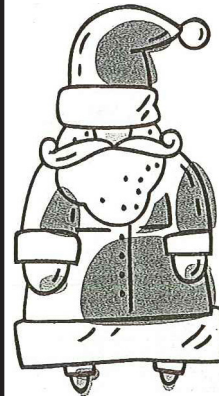

In other words, Please Shop Locally. We'll all be glad you did!

Peace and joy.

Rotary Club News

The Rotary Foundation is the International wing of Rotary and Renee Brooks, the TRF Chair, has a grasp of how the funds raised by Port Orford Rotary are used to help people living in poverty around the world. So far this year our generous members have given $10,454 to TRF. To give some perspective, $100 will provide 70 children prescription glasses in Vietnam or hearing aids to 10 deaf children in Columbia. $200 provides 6 blind children in India cataract operations. $1000 provides clean drinking water for a village of 300 people in Argentina. The $5,317 raised for "End Polio Now" at Jennifer and Gary Robertson's wine tasting auction means that hundreds of children will not get polio. Because of The Rotary Foundation's aid program thousands of lives are saved from disease and death. Villages are helped with safe stoves, clean water, prosthetics, glasses, hearing aids and much more. Renee thanked all those who so generously and willingly give to help those in need. Because of the integrity and ethics of The Rotary Foundation, the value of donations increase through matching grants and interest. There are local Rotary clubs all over the world to recognize needs and administer help, one person at a time.

Watercolor Show At Library

Works by some of Oregon's finest watercolor painters are on display at the Port Orford Library through the end of the year. The works were selected by juror Ted Nuttall of Phoenix, Arizona from 388 works submitted by members of the Watercolor Society of Oregon. From the 80 paintings he chose for the Fall Transparent Watercolor Show at Sun River, he selected 21 award winners that make up the traveling show.

The Watercolor Society of Oregon was started by a handful of painters back in 1965, and through the years it has grown so that many watercolorist's in the state are now members. Admission is by jury; information about how to become a member will be available at the library.

This is the last traveling show to be organized by Bandon artist Victoria Tierney. She is passing the mantle to Cindy Briggs, a very active member in the NorthWestern Watercolor Society.

Port Orford Water Report

The City of Port Orford Public Works Department reported that they produced 3.859 million gallon of water during the October billing period. The city metered 2.209 million gallons of that water for a loss rate of 42.7% or 1.649 million gallons of water. The Public Works department received and treated a total waste flow of 2.114 million gallons in October.

Farewell Performances

This weekend Theatre 101 bids farewell to its intimate “blue box” with our final performances of “Who’s On First” by Jack Sharkey. As you may know, Theatre 101 will be vacating this space January 1st and we will begin our search for a new home. This space has served us well and we will miss it. Please come down and see the show and join us for a glass of wine.

“Who’s On First” is a fast-paced, farce-like comedy. The action revolves around a magic lamp and wishes made - and like they say, be careful what you wish for! It’s a “groundhog day” situation as the players relive their situation over and over, in different relationships, costumes, and dialects. Our best actors grace the stage - Dianne Antonio, Ken Stevens, Susi Kohler, and David Smith. It’s really a show you don’t want to miss. Tickets are on sale at the Downtown Fun Zone and at the door. For reservations, call 332-PLAY.
